

The Classic Communicator

Student Classic

ISSUE NO. 24 - STRIVING FOR EXCELLENCE IN ACADEMICS • SPORTSMANSHIP • ATHLETICS • NOV. - DEC. 2019

Comments from the CEO

Dick Schlagel, CEO

Have
You
Heard?

When I created the All-American Student Classic in the late 1970's, it was my deep desire that a major goal of the classic would be "striving for excellence". I wanted the student participants, each girl and boy, to have that mind-set to:

- Surpass and go beyond other competitors.
- Make strenuous and successful efforts to be the very "Best of the Best".
- "Battle" it out!
- Exert one's self vigorously
- Out do fellow classmates by showcasing knowledge in five academic contests.
- Continue to show constant improvement in each of the ten challenging events.
- Excel, aim high, don't give up, keep positive, display good sportsmanship, no excuses, have fun

By implementing these seven features, a student can be one of the top All-American Students on his or her campus. The AASC is an incredible event, focusing on both brain and brawn. Finally, as you are striving for excellence, you will want to be a positive role model at your participating school.

That... Our AASC Team has had several very positive meetings with Doug Ismel, Principal, Porterville Military Academy, a school currently housing students in grade 7-8-9-10. They are looking at the possibility of having the AASC this Spring for students in grades 7-8. Students in grades 9-10, could serve in various leadership roles in conducting this incredible event.

That... Our goal is to reach 10,000 student participants as of June 30, 2020. 7,950 students have enjoyed this incredible event since May 2012.

That... These three words still defines the AASC.
First class • Smiles • Recognition

That... The Third Annual McDermont All- American Student Classic Invitation be held at the end of the school year. Every school conducting a local AASC event may send 5 girls and 5 boys at each grade level to participate in the Invitational. No cost to student or school.

Smiles Define our AASC

"I love the smiles and sound of laughter of kids I hear in the midst of competition. I know we are making a difference. For some of these kids, the AASC could be the one activity that could be a life-changing experience."

LEADERSHIP MATTERS!

CONGRATULATIONS!

AN OBSTACLE COURSE ACTIVITY

NEVER GIVE UP!

ANOTHER CHALLENGING EVENT

“The All-American Student Classic has common theme. It brings students for a week of fun and activities. It also helps also helps change the school culture and provides for a very positive school climate.”